REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. Claims 1-41 are allowed over the prior art of record.
2. Claims 42-44 have been canceled.
3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The Applicants arguments filed on 6/25/2007 are persuasive. The feature of independent claim 1 directed towards allowable subject matter is displaying a first black level by the liquid crystal material in a first period, applying a first voltage to the liquid crystal material for a first gradation display in a second period just after the first period, displaying a second black level by the liquid crystal material in a third period just after the second period: and applying a second voltage to the liquid crystal material for a second gradation display in a fourth period just after the second period. The feature of independent claim 2 directed towards allowable subject matter is canceling out a spontaneous polarization of the liquid crystal material in a first period, and applying a first voltage to the liquid crystal material for a first gradation display in a second period just after the first period, canceling out the spontaneous polarization of the liquid crystal material in a third period just after the second period, applying a second voltage to the liquid crystal material for a second gradation display in a fourth period just after the third period. The feature of independent claim 3 directed towards allowable subject matter is applying a voltage of OV to the liquid crystal material in a first period, and applying a first voltage to the liquid crystal material for a first gradation display in a second period just after the first period, applying a voltage of OV to the liquid crystal material in a third period just after the second period, applying, a voltage to the liquid crystal material for a second gradation display in a fourth period just after the third period. The feature of independent claim 12 directed towards allowable subject matter is applying a voltage of OV to the liquid crystal material in a first period through a single thin film transistor of the plurality of thin film transistors, and performing a first gradation display in a second period through the single thin film transistor just after the first period, applying a voltage of OV to the liquid crystal material in a third period through a single thin film transistor of said plurality of thin film transistors just after the second period, and performing a second gradation display in a fourth period through said single thin film transistor just after the third period. Nito et al. generally teaches of the type of liquid crystal display claimed however fails to specifically teach of said drive sequence highlighting the specific periods presented in the described order. Therefore the above said features in combination with the other limitations of the above independent claims 1-3 and 12, are found to be allowable over the prior art of record, and therefore claims 1-41 are allowable.

4. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
